Chapter One

‘Astronomy’

Astronomy is the study of everything in the universe beyond Earth's atmosphere.

‘The meaning of ASTRONOMY is the study of objects and matter outside the earth's atmosphere and of their physical and chemical properties.’ - (www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/astronomy)

‘Astronomy, science that encompasses the study of all extraterrestrial objects and phenomena. Until the invention of the telescope and the discovery of the laws of motion and gravity in the 17th century, astronomy was primarily concerned with noting and predicting the positions of the Sun, Moon, and planets, originally for calendrical and astrological purposes and later for navigational uses and scientific interest. The catalogue of objects now studied is much broader and includes, in order of increasing distance, the solar system, the stars that make up the Milky Way Galaxy, and other, more distant galaxies. With the advent of scientific space probes, Earth also has come to be studied as one of the planets, though its more-detailed investigation remains the domain of the Earth sciences.’

I have a Guinness World Record for ‘the most users to take an online environmental sustainability lesson in 24 hours’ – it involved doing a 30-minute online lesson about light pollution, and then going outside under the stars and making a night sky observation from wherever in the world you were located. I was located in Mount Gambier, Sth AUS. The World Record was attempted on Sunday the 21st of June (the longest night of the year in the Southern Hemisphere). The Australian Dark Sky Alliance organised the World Record which measured Light pollution which is typically when artificial light is in excess or is misdirected and washes out the stars in the night sky above. It not only wastes energy, but it interferes with astrological research, disrupts ecosystems, and impacts the health of humans and other animals. Light pollution can be observed from space by seeing how much light carries out to space. Viewed from space scientists only observe half of the story of light pollution impacts, the other half is what the light pollution does to block the view of the stars from Earth.

NASA will tell you ‘Stars form in large clouds of gas and dust called molecular clouds. Molecular clouds range from 1,000 to 10 million times the mass of the Sun and can span as much as hundreds of light-years. Molecular clouds are cold which causes gas to clump, creating high-density pockets. Some of these clumps can collide with each other or collect more matter, strengthening their gravitational force as their mass grows. Eventually, gravity causes some of these clumps to collapse. When this happens, friction causes the material to heat up, which eventually leads to the development of a protostar – a baby star. Batches of stars that have recently formed from molecular clouds are often called stellar clusters, and molecular clouds full of stellar clusters are called stellar nurseries.’ - I don’t think I can find a more accurate and comprehensive explanation than that! The universe has a countless number of stars and is said to contain up to one septillion stars (1000000000000000000000000). The Milky Way which we can admire on most clear nights is said to contain over a hundred billion stars. Stars are made up of mostly hydrogen, some helium, and small amounts of other elements. Giant balls of hot gas illuminating the night sky. The stars life cycle is unique to its chemistry make up, featuring in the universe for million to even trillions of years.

I grew up with a telescope which my dad bought for my brother. As a family we often went outside and viewed the moon and stars. Dad found Mars and we viewed many stars and planets growing up.

I am fascinated with the night. With the moon, especially the full moon. The energy radiated from the night sky is immersing, amazing, invigorating and recharging to me.

I will stop to observe the full moon, I love the light it generates in the night sky and feel it has a significance in life as the moon rejuvenates from new to full over the calendar years.

For centuries, the full moon has been stated to have an effect on behavioural changes in humans and animals. Physicians and philosophers noting these changes to the pull of the moon. The word “lunatic,” stemming from the idea that changes in mental state were related to lunar cycles. The connection between the moon and human/animal behaviours goes back centuries supported in historic recordings.

When the moon alignment is directly opposite the sun, the feeling I get is a sense of harmony and balance in one's self - the universe. Nothing crazy.

A time of peak illumination in the night sky, the full moon brings an energy of completeness and clarity. This is apparent to me as the moon reaches its fullest potential, its energy intensifies, and as does the energy of life on these nights in both animals and ours. A phenomenon supported by many others in opinion, theory, and feelings.

The full moon occurring approximately once a month (not limited to) when the earth, sun, and moon are in a line and the earth is between the moon and the sun. The sun fully illuminating the side of the moon that we can see from the earth filling the night sky with the sun's light during the dark period after the day. The full moon is the midpoint of the lunar cycle, the twenty-nine-day period from one new moon to the next.

As chaotic as the full moon is at times labelled, the Full Moons especially Supermoons are magnificent and most energetic astrological events. Unlike Mercury retrogrades, the energy of the moon is present every night and the full moon is not actually prone to causing chaos within the atmosphere. Full Moons are dynamic, peaceful, and filled with manifestation energy, culmination, and tranquil moments of self-realisation I believe after indulging countless nights under the beauty of the full moon.

There are claims that an older 1985 meta-analysis found no connection between phases of the moon and mental health admissions to hospitals, causing fits of violence or criminal activity.

Any extra criminal activity can be attributed to the facts that the night makes things more visible to the human eye, which honestly a good criminal would not take advantage of in hopes to not be seen and caught. The increase of cerebral activity due to the increase of energy on this night and the light keeping the mind activity is why the moon is not always seen as a peaceful omen.

There is seemingly no solid study evidence that shows the Moon affects human mental and physical health, yet in organisms such as coral the activity at this time appear to see coral spawning based on the lunar cycle.

A full moon rises around sunset and sets around sunrise.

Majority of the time the full moon isn't perfectly full. Seen from earth the side of the moon visible has a shadow on it, this shadow is not visible to the naked eye and is on a small part of most full moons due to the moon's rotation. Only when the alignment of the Sun, the moon and earth are perfect is when there is a one-hundred percent full moon, this produces a lunar eclipse.

The unique astronomical event called a 'super blue blood moon' is a magnificent astronomy event. NASA stating regarding this moon in 2018 that: The Jan. 31 full moon is special for three reasons: it's the third in a series of "supermoons," when the Moon is closer to Earth in its orbit — known as perigee — and about 14 percent brighter than usual. It's also the second full moon of the month, commonly known as a "blue moon." The super blue moon will pass through Earth's shadow to give viewers in the right location a total lunar eclipse. While the Moon is in the Earth's shadow it will take on a reddish tint, known as a "blood moon."

In feng shui the full moon is seen as the strongest chi energy influencing the planet, humans, and animals.

If you have never indulged the energy of the full moon, get out there and be still for a moment, recharge – enjoy the night.

If you have never star gazed, telescopes are rather inexpensive these days. They are a wonderful toy/tool and looking for stars under a clear night sky is a wonderful way to relax, spend time with the family and indulge in the wonders and greatness of this universe. In the days and age where aliens are no longer hidden as in existence, with much information available on the internet about our extra-terrestrial friends and foes, you could even be lucky enough to spot an unidentified flying object (UFO)!

Chapter Two 'Astrology'

Taurus, (Latin: "Bull") the zodiacal constellation lying in the northern sky between Aries and Gemini, at about four hours twenty minutes right ascension and 16° north declination. The constellation's brightest star, Aldebaran (Arabic for "the follower"; also called Alpha Tauri), is the 14th brightest star in the sky, with a magnitude of 0.85.

The Taurus Zodiac is known to be stubborn, and stubborn I am. If I am right, I will stand by this fact until the bitter end – no matter who blocks or hinders the truth and no matter to what detriment.

An Earth sign, the fourth point on the pentagram – talisman (Talisman = an object held to act as a charm to avert evil and bring good fortune. 2.: something producing apparently magical or miraculous effects). Taureans, like their celestial spirit animal, enjoy relaxing in serene, bucolic environments surrounded by soft sounds, soothing aromas, and succulent flavours. Traits to which are also very true of myself. When I want to recharge, I seek nature, solitude, and natural sounds – whether it be out in the environment or through meditation music. I find peace in the wondrous beauty of our universe and its nature.

Embodying many of the Taurus traits in my personality, Taureans are said to be graceful and diligent labourer's, great listeners and very dependable. Their work ethic is said to go on for ever and have a strong desire for social and corporate stability.

Honesty is a strong trait of the star sign and me. Amongst people it is said that the star sign's energy generates satisfaction and respect in people around them with their pleasant, loving, and honest persona. I am often told that I make people feel good, confident, and more powerful than they felt outside of my company which I think is a lovely compliment.

Neediness is a weakness I feel in myself in relationships. I need to feel my partner's presence more often than not and if I do not feel this, I find myself not wanting that person. Growing the distance, I feel it as something more and break off the relationship – absence does not make the heart grow fonder here with me.

Careers wise I am bold and extravagant. Taureans are said to have a strong desire for extravagance, contentment, and great things, which can lead to intense neediness. Seemingly a quite accurate interpretation of the Taurus energy, I find myself needing to be productive and achieve something each day – big or small, unwell, or well in health.

A friendly and outgoing type, I make friends very easily which is also a common trait in this star sign. Growing up my mother had a huge impact on my beliefs in star signs and the significance they have with the energy we are. Born under the stars of this energy I think most people of any of the celestial star signs can recognise the commonalities in their character which align with the energy of the star sign to which we are born under. I think this significant, and feel it is a reflection that we are created in the image of our universe. Even if you do not believe in God, you cannot deny that this universe was created and evolves from the energy in it, surrounding it – from past and present right through to the future until the sun burns out into a black whole which will inevitably swallow our solar system.

We are matter – atoms and molecules sparked into life which roams this planet. Intertwined and interconnected with this universe and all that exists within it and outside of it. No one's energy in this world has no effect. The time print that you are born under is unique, even though that date has born someone or something onto this earth over its billions of years in existence, the time is always unique. It is very rare that two people are born in the exact same place, at the same time and even if so, they would have to be on top of each other so to speak which is nearly impossible. Conception followed by, the location, time and date of our birth is the energy we are created by.

To understand the significance of the star sign and the energy to which is generated during this period of your birth, you must understand the seasons and the significance of the sun within our solar system. Without the sun – life as it is known does not exist.

The March and September equinoxes mark the beginning of the spring and autumn seasons on Earth.

The equinox in March is the start of spring (moving into Summer) in the Northern Hemisphere and the beginning of Fall (moving into Winter) South of the equator from South to North. As the sun crosses the celestial equator (the imaginary line around the earth marking from south to north). This equinox happens on March 19, 20, or 21 every year.

June Solace in the North is celebrated. The bringing of brighter weather and more active times for people. Stonehenge, a prehistoric monument in Wiltshire, England, is evidence of the fact that ancient humans used the June solstice as a way to organize their calendars. The unique stone circle of Stonehenge's erected around 2500 BCE in order to establish the date of the June solstice, viewed from its centre, shows the Sun rises at a particular point on the horizon on day of the solstice. The builders of Stonehenge using the solstice as a starting point to count the days of the year. Many significant ancient historical sites across the world show the marking of the calendar in such ways. The Serpent mound in Ohio, USA oval-to-head area of the serpent is aligned to the summer solstice sunset.

Astronomers can tell you much about the stars that make up our star signs. In the Northern Territory, Alice Springs you can visit Earth Sanctuary – which I have done multiple times, and gaze at planets while learning about our star signs from a solar system type perspective. The relationship we have on earth with the stars and solar system we exist in is imperative to life as we know it.

There is nothing crazy about following you star sign chart – the newspaper readings may not always be right, but the personalities patterns, the energy we are united with in our solar system upon birth and the guidance the universe can give us regarding understanding ourselves is real, wonderful, and valuable.

Chapter Three 'Travel'

What you do when you have nothing else to do, want a holiday or think the world is calling you.

Travel.

They say, "Life is about the adventures you take and the memories you make." – this is not untrue.

I travelled for the better part of five months across Australia delivering the Royal Commission Autobiography – The Story Behind the Brand BARBWIRE NOOSE to regional libraries at the end of 2023 into the beginning of 2024. This travel ensuring the government could not cover up their criminal negligence against the literal voiceless, I was able to enjoy the adventure and indulge places I had not seen, hike areas I had not been and meet friendly faces I would not have ever met without taking on this Human Rights journey. The atrocities committed under and SA Labor government with a cover up that span twenty years involving both the Liberal and Labor Governments with complicit Greens governing powers also are abhorrent – diabolical as I have often referred to the situation as. The how's and whys are irrefutable – no one really cared about non-cognitive disabled persons with the capacity of infants except me – literally. Until I started travelling, meeting So many like-minded people who restored my energy and beliefs in the power of humanity. Without the publication I ruthlessly pursued to print as well as myself spending five months travelling Australia in comfortable and uncomfortable conditions nothing would have eventuated. These disabled persons would have died seeing no form of resolution to the crimes committed against them – some of them did. Unimaginable to think, yet this is reality. Before this I spent three months at the start of 2023 travelling after suffering false incarceration torts due to whistleblowing both sides of government and police forces in their sex crimes cover up. Here is a chapter about this great country of Australia, summing up small pieces of my travels, encounters, and favourite places I've been thus far.

Visit Australia, pick up your litter and be nice to all of our people.

I found peace and comfort in persons open to the truth, meeting some amazing people on my journey, I was able to spend time and take selfies with some really genuinely good people, wonderful faces who cared not only for Human Rights, but for the voiceless persons neglected and abused stories. Disappointed by the unacknowledged outcome that stemmed from the four-year long Disability Royal Commission where this diabolical cover up after over two-hundred recommendations and countless public disclosure passed its six-month closing mark ignoring the gruelling facts of the submission about Mount Gambier Sth AUS Sharley House. I refused to give up on seeing this cover up acknowledged by those in government who were party to the cover up. Who gained politically from these crimes. Who were complicit in stealing the rights of our most vulnerable.

It was on the 'Road to Resolution' to which I found peace, solace, and the most wonderful places to see and travel in Australia.

Werris Creek, NSW was a humble little town filled with country folk and gossip. A typical country mentality in a remote yet not area of NSW, located approximately forty-three kilometres from Tamworth, NSW. The facilities to pull up your caravan, camper trailer or even pitch a tent here are second to none. Tamworth, a popular city, and the heart of country music in Australia. If you are a country music fan, do not miss this one on the map of places to visit.

The heart of Silverton, NSW where you'll find the famous Mad Max (two) movie was filmed as well as the best museum regarding this Icon Australian movie. A collection of one-off memorabilia and the feel of the Mad Max movie undeniably throughout its displays, the character of this town is Amazing – with a population of approximately fifty people recorded (2024). It's worth deviating from the well-known city of Broken Hill, NSW to check out the museum, old jail, art works and grab a drink at the pub – which is full of people and personalities as I seen it!

Cobar, NSW was spectacular. A mining town approximately three-hundred kilometres from the well-known city of Dubbo where gold and copper is mined, and the locals are friendly faces. Dubbo, NSW known as the 'city of smiles' I was met with glee galore in this place, from banks to pizza recommendations (pizza is my favourite food!) and the friendliest service across the centre of NSW.

West Wyalong, NSW is a farming town – two towns, Wyalong and West Wyalong. Wyalong comes from the Wiradjuri name Waaylang, meaning hard shelled nut. This refers to the quandong seed, which was ground and used for flour. It was a cute place.

Griffith, NSW is renown in Australia for Marijuana if that's what you are into. I kind of am and will never deny I like a doobie. These days, marijuana is globally legalising and is broadly accepted across Australia indulged both recreationally and for medicinal purposes.

The countryside of NSW is not as lush as what I am used to growing up in regional Sth AUS where the rain is plentiful, and the regions are predominately green. Yet it is still filled with forests and trees toward the east-coast of Australia which is prone to flooding and I must say I think that the National Parks of NSW which are abundant with trees are beyond words spectacular. If you are into flora and fauna, NSW forests are the best in Australia – without seeing Cairns, QLD, which I am yet to visit! The rain forests of Cairns, QLD look breathtaking.

Sth AUS is my home state and I can say after travelling regionally across Australia donating The Story Behind the Brand BARBWIRE NOOSE to regional libraries, that I have basically seen the entire state. I love Sth AUS with Adelaide, Sth AUS labelled as the most liveable city in Australia, the state and our capital city has a spectacular vibe.

Located in central Australia, our coastlines are abundant with life and unlike the upper region of Australia – the Northern Territory, Sth AUS is not filled with Jurassic Park sized bugs. Which I must say is rather wonderful.

The Northern Territory, AUS is cool. I spent a lot of time in Alice Springs and although it gets a bad rap, I loved it. Our Indigenous peoples – aboriginals are the best and they cared for me like I was one of their own. To me, we are one and I love all of my indigenous mates so much. I did not make it to Darwin, yet I have been told it is beautiful but be careful of the crocodiles. Big bastards will eat you alive in a vicious way, don't go swimming alone and stay in your boat if you see one.

Victoria (VIC), AUS – outside of having one of the worst police forces in Australia, alongside NSWPOL is a beautiful state. The parks are abundant with nature and well kept. Though the state is known to have four seasons in one day in many areas across it, I have always enjoyed visiting the Arapiles to rock climb as well as the Grampians in Victoria. Hiking, bird watching or just enjoying the native scenery, you can really slow down in regional Victoria. Visiting the ski slopes to snowboard (and ski) Mt Hotham, Mt Buller and Falls Creek does not disappoint - if you are into these things. You can really get out there and get into anything and everything in VIC. There is so much to do and see throughout Victoria with Melbourne, to me, being one of The Best places to shop. I love Collins Street, Chadstone, Bourke Street Mall, Emporium – just naming a few of the great places to spend your money while in Victoria!

Queensland is the known tourist hub of Australia and it is not overrated. I celebrated my thirtieth birthday in Queensland and have been back numerous times since. Always seeing something new and doing something different. Other than the government being one of the most tyrannical in Australia, you can't go past the sunshine coast for some real Australian characters, beach, glitz, glamour as well as capturing our down to earth ways.

Tasmania is the heart of Australia without being in the heart of Australia. I have hiked in the snow at Ben Lomond, enjoyed the scenery of Cataract Gorge Reserve. Visited the Port Arthur Penitentiary site numerous times and shopped Hobarts markets every visit. Cradle Mountain is one of the most beautiful destinations in Australia (I think). Although it is cold most of the time which isn't everyone's cup of tea - what do you expect being close as to Antarctica! Tasmania as a place is cool, calm, and full of wildlife. You can travel to the other side of the state in a day and see plenty of nature along the way. Hobart is equipped with all you need to indulge in city living. I have had So much fun in Tasmania as a child and as an adult. A place to see, it is also the place to be if you love the cold, laid back country sides and humble personalities.

Western Australia (WA) – I've visited only the main destinations here, yet I have definitely had a blast and had my eyes opened to a broad collection of personalities in Fremantle, Perth. The place is fill with someone from everywhere across Australia and is the home of some of our most profitable mines. The beaches are pristine and the culture so diverse that you can't help but fall in love with the place.

Dry deserts as well as beautiful beach fronts, it is a long way from Australia's main states and popular east-coast, yet just as beautiful from what I have experienced and heard from locals. The home of Eco Fashion Week Australia (EFWA) in November, the beautiful weather and gorgeous back drops make the place a wonderful destination for events, employment and so much more! I can't wait to explore more of WA in years to come!

Chapter Four 'Dictators'

Girls in Jocks and Boys in panties. I hate Hitler.

Adolf Hitler known for his Nazi coup on Germany – a brutal lust for power which was trying to give rise to the Aryan race. Mao Zedong led China from 1949 to 1976 who promoted communism in his times. Adil Amin became Uganda's third president after a military coup. What do these men have in common in history, they are all Dictators who led with brutality, discrimination, dehumanisation. Opposing the Free World, cultures, religions, and the tolerances of differences in the human race which makes us unique and great as a species.

The Psychology of Dictatorship; Based on an Examination of the Leaders of Nazi Germany. Br G. M. GILBERT. (New York: Ronald Press Co. 1950. Pp. viii 327. $4.00.)

"If wishes were horses"- asserts an old saw – “beggars would ride.” And if social psychology and psychiatry were exact sciences instead of being highly imprecise arts and amorphous masses of dubious generalizations, then (presumably) the political scientist's inescapable task of trying to describe, analyze, predict, and control non-rational and irrational human behavior might become more nearly possible of accomplishment. Unhappily, that which now appears imperatively necessary for survival still seems to be intellectually impossible of achievement. The difficulties of the assignment, within the limits of orthodox psychological and psychiatric concepts, are demonstrated in the present work. Failure is not the fruit of lack of inspiration or of diligent application to the problem in hand, either on the part of this author or on the part of social scientists in general. Why we remain so ignorant of the psyche is still unknown. If it were known, we should be well on the way to wisdom. Under these circumstances, nothing can be demanded of the "experts" save humility and receptivity to new approaches. - Dr. Gustave M. Gilbert, former Prison Psychologist at the Nuremberg trial of the Nazi war criminals and Visiting Associate Professor of Psychology at Princeton, is an orthodox expert of neo-Freudian persuasion. He wrote a fascinating and valuable book, full of new material on Hitler.

The reality of these times is, that everyone thinks they are a psychologist on some level. Truth being told by the assessment of the direction of one's eyes movement is severely lacking in conclusive truth, yet everyone believes a person only to be genuine if they eyeball you or look to the right in thought, not the left. A theory debunked countless times with studies showing that the most proficient liars stare you straight in the eyes. I have never believed that the simple movement of the eye determines honesty. Frankly, I think quite to the contrary with people looking in the direction of objects, body position, free thought, or persuasive thought – sights, sounds and smells often influencing the direction of the eye.

I have been brought up in a dictator like family dynamic – yet my dad is generally not a liar. So, my understanding of a dictator is that they speak with authority and conviction looking you dead in the eye most of the time whether they are lying or not. A dictator is dangerous because they actually believe their own lies. There is not perception of truth VS lies as they are convinced in their entirety that they are right. When convincing you of their truth, even if they don't believe entirely in what they are saying, they are convinced of their objective so the truth rarely matters to a dictator. Achieving their goal is all they care for and controlling the outcome – the narrative is required to achieve the power to which they crave.

The greatest dictator I have encountered is actually my uncle, seven years older than my father he has convinced his younger brother for decades, that he knows what is best, what is right, what is true and the only time I have seen my father stray from this is regarding his love for his father as my uncle spent little time around my dad's dad (Joseph Stanley Hobbs). Or regarding my dad's love for me, my dad will stray from my uncle's dictatorship thoughts where I am a topic. My dad and I share a telepathical relationship if you believe in this thing and my uncle does not control my dad's protection of me. My dad will defy my uncle's guidance when I am the topic. Very capable of thinking for himself, I think my dad is smarter than my uncle so I do often wonder why he listens to him, lived experiences I suppose. Anyway.

For the most part, with me my dad has been strict yet not as much as a dictator as he was as a manager. I suppose this is because my behaviour to rebel was displayed at an early age and probably subconsciously reminded him of his father. My dad opting at times when it mattered to not wage a dictatorial war with myself as the battle would not only see him lose but it would see him lose his daughter. Both of my parents recognising I was an old soul from a young age. They have both equally given me free reign to make many decisions of my own based on my stubbornness and intellect.

From these experiences growing up I learned that you can get what you want from fear but you get further with respect. By being honest and showing humility and understanding. My mother as much as we have family differences is a rather gentle and compassionate leader whereas my dad would often put the wind up you and fear would have you do as you were told. This balance is more productive than a dictatorship and this is where after a while a dictatorship will always fail. After a while, like hitting a child and the pain becoming something they can tolerate, so does the fear. The fear subsides and the what if I rebel against this narrative comes into play. Unless the threat is death, and even then, this will not scare everyone in misery – in misery all a human wants is an out and therefore they will encourage death in the end. A dictatorship, though they have a majority of scared followers will never be able to control everyone like a fair and democratic leadership can achieve.

So why do we still have countries under dictatorial leadership if it only drives many to hate them. The answer is simple, power. Power has always corrupted the minds of man, an ego driven emotion lacking humility which can only be understood by psychology. The studies of psychology flawed by the fact that each and every one of us is born of our own unique energy.

Chapter Five

‘The Free World’

“People fight today for the same fundamental reasons the Greek historian Thucydides identified nearly 2,500 years ago: fear, honour, and interest.” - quote Herbert Raymond McMaster: retired United States Army lieutenant general who served as the 25th United States National Security Advisor from 2017 to 2018.

It is fact that if we were all the same the world would be boring. The fact that many countries allow us to be freely ourselves is the reason we flourish. The reason we grow. The reasons the world evolves.

Those countries who dictate the level of independent thinking we can engage must steal ideas. The progress of China and the Nazi regime are perfect examples of this. These societies restrict the level of thinking their persons can achieve on their own, which in turn hold back their potential. Dictatorships only allow the few to flourish and very much relies on financial support to achieve progress.

It costs nothing to think. Nothing to sit on your own and create. With the freedom and materials to do so, we see the greatest inventions and the greatest inventors of all times.

The concept of the free world is simple; the part of the world where democracy and capitalism or moderate socialism rather than totalitarian or Communist political and economic systems prevail.

“The balance of power and persuasion in the world has shifted against the United States and other free and open societies. Much of that shift has been self-inflicted due to a failure to understand emerging challenges to American security, prosperity, and influence. The United States must improve its strategic competence and, in particular, its ability not only to improve understanding, but also to integrate all elements of national power and efforts of likeminded partners to accomplish defined policy goals. The effort to shift the balance in favor of the United States and likeminded liberal democracies will depend on confidence as well as competence because wars and competitions short of wars are, fundamentally, contests of will.” – (Statement of LTG H.R. McMaster (U.S. Army, retired) Senior Fellow, Hoover Institution, Stanford University Before The Senate Armed Services Committee Hearing on Global Security Challenges 2 March 2021)

Genius exists in the mind of the free and genius can only exist when we are free to connect with our highest form of self. Not restricted by the dictation of another. This is the utmost importance of democracy. To see the human race and all humans flourish freely into the best self that they can be.

Though freedom does not always bring out the best in people, for the most part it does. Human beings are emotive and are not meant to exist in solitude. We could not survive in solitude alone; we need a mate to continue the human race. We have grown together from love, free to be caring for one another.

Free will, in philosophy and science, the supposed power or capacity of humans to make decisions or perform actions independently of any prior event or state of the universe. Arguments for free will have been based on the subjective experience of freedom, on sentiments of guilt, on revealed religion, and on the common assumption of individual moral responsibility that underlies the concepts of law, reward, punishment, and incentive. In theology, the existence of free will must be reconciled with God's omniscience and benevolence and with divine grace, which allegedly is necessary for any meritorious act. A prominent feature of existentialism is the concept of a radical, perpetual, and frequently agonizing freedom of choice. Jean-Paul Sartre (1905–80), for example, spoke of the individual “condemned to be free.” – (Source: Britannica, 2024)

I believe that free will is imperative to maintaining the free world, alongside, humility, equality and the ability to take out the enemy before it takes you out. Strategy is more powerful than plays of peace and war only. Strategy directs the narratives of peace and war. It creates the vibes, the moves, the imperative timing to which can achieve an objective. Without strength and conviction, strategy is nothing – driven by ego strategy is also nothing. Yet, driven by free will, love, equality, and compassion free will in the free world will maintain man's freedom.

Chapter Six

'Sex'

The connection between a woman and a man in purity is spiritual, a connection of the chakras forming a circle of infinite energy to create life.

I am going to start by making my opinion very clear. Sex is not a sport. I am not saying you cannot treat it like one - Your Body = Your Choice. I more than one hundred percent believe that you are entitled to do what you like with the temple of your soul – your body. It exists to carry your energy into its next realm of life, and we will all inevitably die even though our spirits are immortal as with the energy that we leave behind. That stated, I do not believe that you should devalue life by using your body in unproductive ways.

The prostitute/gigolo has a clear role in society. Do I condone a person who uses another person – No, do I condemn the soul to which provides the service – also, No.

These things clear, the primary function of sex is to procreate - to breed. This is the truest of the function of sex. Anyone claiming otherwise is delusional.

Our sexual organs play a vital part in excretion and reproduction. They produce life and excrete body waste.

The connection between a male and a female is what creates new life. This function does not exist between two males or two females, like it or not if we were all homosexual the human race would no longer exist naturally. This is fact. To breed you need the function of a male penis and a female vagina. Nothing more, nothing less. Artificial insemination and Petri-dish breeding is not a natural function of the human body.

The connection between a male and a female can be purely primary and physical. Yet, when the connection between a female and male is both biochemical and chemistry the predominate function of human connection is complete. We create the most infinite soul when we are infinitely connected.

Born of love, procreation out of love is the height of sex and our sexual existence.

I am born out of love and was raised by two parents who very much displayed a connection of chemistry in love with each other. Despite life's function and any deterioration of connection. To be born of love is the ultimate achievement in creating life.

Though we do not always desire to stay with another person throughout life, if this moment, the moment of sex is of the deepest connection between to human beings the most wonderful energy is generated. Our primary function is complete and the first emotion known to human beings is within that dedicated act of sex. Babies do not know hate as an emotion when they are born, they know love – then the functions of hunger, temperature, time (not as we know it on a clock), and excretion.

This is where I think the function of sex is at its greatest. Not necessary to procreate as is its primary function, but to produce the chemicals of love into the universe, atmosphere, to leave the print of love in the cosmos. That is the, to me, the truest of sex's function.

I was always in a relationship since sixteen years of age until I turned thirty years of age. The sex between me and my boyfriends was abundant and I was with these few men (boys in mind) for at least a year, usual a couple during these periods of time. These relationships are not what taught me my opinion of sex that you are reading, yet these relationships and the love that was shared did give me the clear scope and understanding of the things I would and would not do with my temple, which had been defined in my teens as I studied the book Modern Magick by Donald Michael Kraig. A chapter which intensely writes of sex magic and the intertwine of man, woman, and energy.

The boring way the government defines sex is as:
'When something (like a penis or a sex toy) goes inside someone else's mouth, vagina or anus. Vaginal, anal and oral sex are all types of penetrative sex.' (Source: <https://www.getthefacts.health.wa.gov.au/sex>). Kind of sounds gross like that I think.

The facts by the government then go onto tell you:
'Being a sexual being is an awesome thing – but, like anything in life, it can pose some risks. 'Sexual health' means having consenting, pleasurable and safe sexual experiences. It's up to you to have sex in a way that reduces the chances of getting a sexually transmitted infection (STI) or having an unplanned pregnancy. Remember you are in charge of your body, your health and your decisions about sex.'

Great points made here on what can be considered a taboo subject by some.

The bottom line is sex is natural, it is part of human nature and just like every interaction you have in life, you should be approaching others in a respectful way.

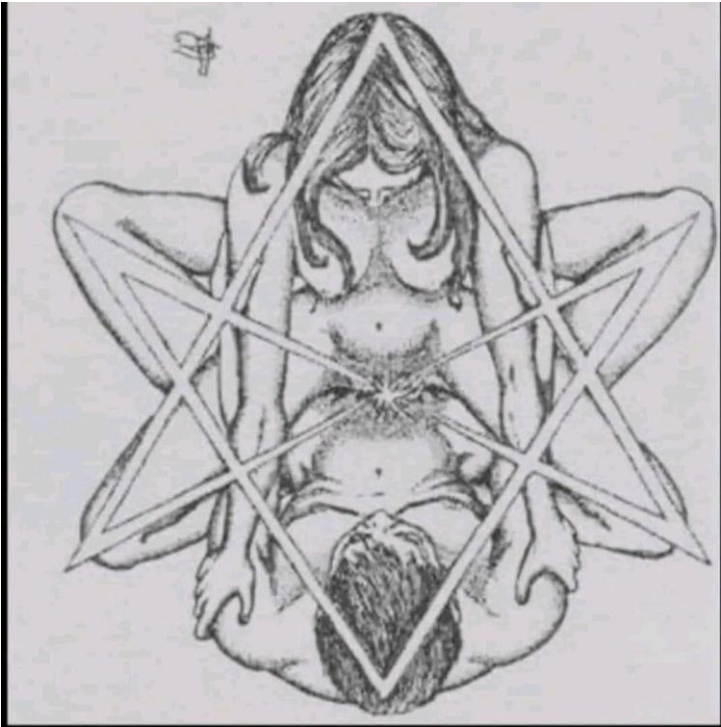

Even if you feel a person does not deserve respect.

Respect yourself enough to choose to walk away, your actions are a reflection of you whether you make good, bad or ugly choices and no matter whether you apologise or feel remorse later. No one has the right to abuse someone physically – that's why we have the avenues of self-defence under law.

Sex has been weaponised for centuries, during times of war to everyday in society. The negative energy, shame and dehumanisation that comes from using sex as a weapon as opposed to engaging in sex on the basis of love is primal in dogs who just jump on one another. We are not dogs; we are not merely animals - we are the most intelligent beings on this planet.

Sex is a gifted connection which empowers two people, heterosexually, homosexually or as an individual.

The energy you create in every action you take lasts for forever. Make it special. Fill the world with love.

Chapter Seven

‘Poetry’

Poems by yours truly.

THE END OF THE BEGINNING

I sit and stare at the ground and feel nothing,
The whispers of the trees say everything but nothing to me,
The sky filled with stars reflect my eyes but I can not see.
All of a sudden,
The world was nothing,
Life was blank and on fire,
In my mind on the horizon I had died a thousand times.
In this moment I knew I was right,
I knew I could die and everything would be fine until tomorrow.
When the sun would rise to decay.
When the rest realised I would never awake,
When my mind hit the floor I was staring and breathed,
Breathed life.
Not an ordinary life but an extraordinary life.
In that moment I realised I had to carry on until
tomorrow,
Forever avoid the decay,

Through my edges fraying from life.
Though out of love,
Though a reflection of spite,
Through a shadow of lies,
The deep seeded compromises.
Through the tragedy,
The pain,
The something for nothing gain.
The torture,
The torment,
The death of my soul.
Which is nothing more than a deep black hole.
The beginning of time,
Life,
The big bang.
All things that are great,
Matter,
The fact that I matter,
You matter,
We matter,
Earth matters,
We're just matter.
This moment in time,
Forever searching for a purpose,
Sometimes it's just to survive.
Not strive,
Not conquer,
Not breed or procrastinate,
To just live,
And breathe,
Think and see,

To be nothing more than everything and nothing.
To be.

The beginning of the end.

It Whispers at Night.

Right now I don't know what to do,
I don't believe in you.

Right now I don't know what I see,
I don't believe in you.

Right now you are as empty as me,
I don't believe in you.

Right now you just make me afraid,
I don't believe in you.

Right now and every now from then I'll feel your hand compliment my pain,
I don't believe in you.

Right now I know I have to remove you again.
I don't believe in you.

The Final Chapter, Chapter 13.

The sound is Empty,
A broken soul,
I can't even love you,
Now that I am this cold.
Numbed in the night,

Daylights the end,
For all of this,
There is no mend.
I can no longer feel the soul you broke,
Nothing lingers in the empty smoke.
Though time passes,
Thoughts be still.
Breathing if not natural would be nil.
The eerie feeling of nothingness,
The strain of obsessed possession,
Tired of waking to wonder,
A corrupted forced confession.
I need not ponder,
As it is fait,
That this could only lead to hate.
Why is it that you won this lost,
Knowing I would fight at any cost.
Caring not whether I would survive,
But for the power you feel has derived.
Yet what power do you possess with I in sight,
The dissolve of your all mighty might.
I turn my back as you have yours,
Not for it be a better cause.
Only as I am the one to suffer,
At the hands of a significant other.

When I know too,
Not what love is,
But only what it was.

Midnight Festivities

Endless calamity that never ceases,
The breeze but a whisper in time,
Subtle rustling within the leaves.
It sounds like a weary summer day,
A frost in August by the moonlight,
Ever so bright.
Sound with no noise,
Just light.
Translucent we sit,
Naked in our sorrow,
In hopes that tomorrow,
Takes what today has given.
Ripples of sporadic emotions,
Broken souls and empty notions.

Suits of disgust,
Hide men of shame.
Our ignorance,
Elevating the blame.
Never before has man stooped so low,
As to disregard the calls of a child for a periscope.
Your lust for power,

Your pathetic self-righteousness,
And patronising serviceman lies.

TURBULENCE OF LOVE

It was the turbulence of love,

The trials of lust.

The distance and an imminent moment,

That broke us.

Emotions are so much more than feelings,

Than fighting,

Than time.

The energy surging through life,

Derived from everything we survive.

Forever and momentary.

An iconic, unlikely love story.

A fragment of love in strife,

On every painful page to its destruction.

That made me forget you.

Why don't you want to try he said,

Because it is time to say goodbye.

You are always torn,

And I am Always broken.

All these words unspoken,

Are exactly what you have chosen.

While I choose to live and die,
You chose to admire from the sidelines the hail.
Every force of deceit,
You played to keep as I weep.
Every sharp pain in the back,
You seemed to pat right back.
Every greed that I would override,
You indulged in its subsiding.
The lying,
The game.
I'm tired and don't believe in fame.
I don't believe in glory,
I only believe in truth.
And Every time I believed in you,
You stood in the queue.
When there was no time to wait,
You chose to hate.
In the end it's all too late.
For I can see no destiny,
Just a dynasty of disgrace.
Years of unembraced embraces,
Amongst endless disgraces.
That is not love my dear,
It's something else.
Like love,
But not love.
As I let go of your heart,
I still hold your hand.
Not because I want to,
Because you need me to.
Fading into black,

There's no going back.
I don't believe in you,
And you don't believe in me,
Anymore.
30th December 2021, Marcia BNoose.

ON FIRE THIS TIME

If I didn't love you,
I wouldn't have chased this at all,
All and all just to stumble and fall.
I forgive the need for forgiveness,
Yet do I forgive the sin?
I believe it to be love,
But where did it begin.
In the stars,
In the sky,
In the love of the moon light.
Was this fight all were ment to be?
Are you my other half,
Or the piece that fell apart?
The place where I start,
The place where we part?
The bottom of my heart,
The point of cupids dart.
We are SO broken,
You and I.
So broken,
Our pieces are falling,
From the sky.
Light in flight.

We unite you and I,
On fire this time.
I long for you,
A great desire,
Yet it's all fire.
A coal or an ember.
Forever together.

Chapter Eight

‘Politics’

The Australian Freedom Party (AFP).
WE THE PEOPLE

The covid pandemic seen violations to Human Rights, Constitutional Rights, and major profiteering from pharmaceutical companies whom in a pandemic should be obligated to roll out vaccination solutions with No Profit margins. Together we can restore Human Rights, Constitutional Rights, and dignity back to the people. Uniting in times of biological issues, where forced distancing and divide devastated families and friend alike separated from their loved ones, even in their passing. Unity is key.

I am an avid follower of the British Freedom Party, led by a female leader who speaks with strength and conviction. I am a person of peace, truth, and humanity.

The Australian Freedom Party is a party for the People, the Universal declaration of Human Rights and the preservation of our precious environment and every living being upon it.

"Civil society is a concept of peace between the peoples, authorities and nations. Governments will elude Any responsibility over a society they are ultimately allowed to flounder" - Marcia Anita Hobbs (Human Rights Activist, Entrepreneur, Proud Australian, Princess)

Despite my OnlyFans page, despite the level I have been degraded to in a decades long cover up. In the era of 'Just send it'. Where no person's device is free from hackers or political agendas. Where technology is so small that a camera can be placed anywhere. In a world where extortion is a price and blackmail is high. I will lead in peace and conviction as I was born to do in my own life. With others, and as I grow with you. As Australia's most influential whistleblower, as a legal advice advocate and a generator of good out of bad times. As a Human Rights activist and a person of peace. I believe in Australia's sovereignty and in each one of you to be free from tyranny. If we all believe in each other, if we all hold hands and know our fellow man matters, we will remain a great country. A leader, an ally, a force to be reckoned with. Alone we stand hand in hand, together for our great country. We are Australia.

The Australian Freedom Party under my name hit the Australian Electoral Roll in 2021. The government knowing my serious ambitions to go into politics since 2005, it was not enough to submit a party name onto the roll against an agenda to paint a whistleblower up as a criminal. In 2024, I have No criminal convictions against my name despite a nationwide cover up involving many persons and parties in government plus many police forces that have benefited out of paedophilia and drug dealing for years.

I am overqualified for many roles in life, policing, as an entrepreneur, as a whistleblower with two decades of government corruption knowledge under my belt. Yet to go into politics in Australia will be my greatest challenge. For the role of leading the Australian Freedom Party, I am not overqualified. For nothing can prepare you for political slander and adversity. That stated it is not the bullshit of the political scene that I feel I need to conquer. What I need to overcome is the tyranny that has fed this nation. Which led to things like the compulsory jab and our politics being led by the greed of the pandemic. Humanity needs to be restored, equality needs to thrive, politicians need their salaries capped and The People need to thrive. WE THE PEOPLE.

I have whistle-blown four Sectors of Governance under both Liberal and Labor Governance in South Australia. Whistle-blowing Health, Policing and National Security breaches on a national level.

My Strengths as a Leader are High Integrity and a history of ruthless truth.

Understanding it takes years to obtain National support. The Australian Freedom Party sees the need for as little as 1000 members of the Australian electoral roll to become a party with force against the lack of integrity in current serving governance. The Australian Freedom Party is in the process of officiating its party presence and further developing its party leader. I, Human Rights Activist Marcia A Hobbs, am passionate about making positive, non-tyrannical change in Australian Governance. Implementing a cap on politician wages is imperative to this directional change.

The AFP party developing into Australian politics under my leadership, seeks membership and furthermore into the future candidates for election into parliament. The AFP are the political party to ensure Integrity, Justice, Peace, and respect for the Universal declaration of Human Rights in Australia. A Bill of Rights Australia.

When you see the Australian Freedom Party on the electoral roll under my name – you know what I stand for and what I do not stand for. I stand for You, I stand for Us, I stand for A Better Australia.

‘Truth VS Lies’

Be careful what lies you tell about me, some dick heads maybe corrected in these books. Defamation is costly. Perjury is a crime punishable by incarceration.

The US Diversity Visa Program with the CIA spent a year trying to sex traffick myself to the USA. I was led to believe that I was being approved initially to take Barbwire Noose clothing to the USA to New York Fashion Week (NYFW). Communications via the phone of an operative nature. Mid 2023 it was obvious that USA law enforcement was behind this application, mainly the CIA but FBI personnel were also clearly aware of the plot and allowed the operation to play out. This activity causing me much emotional distress, escalated the extraordinary emergency and reckless endangerment I was living as well as created six months’ worth of unnecessary struggles regarding accommodation in my living arrangements and residences in Australia. Especially when ‘Barry Smith’ verbal communications stated that he had “heard of” NYFW in a sarcastic manner in approximately September of 2023. By 2024, I was issued with a new VISA manager named ‘Edward Williams’; Immigration Specialist – USAGCO who demanded I pay for a fee for flights I was promised was waived by ‘Barry Smith’. The CIA for a ten-year period had been breaching the privacy of an Australian citizen. Irrefutably when ‘Edward Williams’ started to play games regarding my travel dates in February 2024 asking me if I would be ready to “travel tomorrow” despite the VISA program stipulating it wrapped up in May 2024. The Visa opportunity was advertised as: ‘USAGCO provides guidance and support to applicants of the U.S. Green Card Lottery program.

The program taking approximately one thousand dollars for this sex trafficking plot while I was living an extraordinary emergency and recklessly endangered by the Australian government and law enforcement in a sex crimes cover up.

I have NEVER sold my underpants/panties! Yes, apparently this is one that needs to be cleared up. The truth is police human resources have stolen underwear items for the Gypsy Jokers, naming Luke Hubert Scheidl, David Newton Bradley and Bryan Porker (Darren Nixon) – that I know of. I personally have not given away, marketed, sold or desired to sell my underwear. I understand this shit as like trophy stuff lol but not really as profiteering. Each to their own, but yeah – I’ve never needed money nor attention like that.

These books are public disclosures until law enforcement sort their shit and charge the sex offenders required for me to stop calling out Perjury. Yes, this is legal. How else would the truth be told when police have used me as ‘rape bait’, ‘a cop’ and ran a cover up with government for over a decade.

CIA members told me I was a candidate for employment with the FBI for years. Many of these men had also spent years trying to interact with me sexually since 2021 when I got stuck in Alice Springs, NT during the floods which washed away the roads between NT and Sth AUS. 4WD vehicles the only vehicles which could pass for months, my car a little four-cylinder KIA Rio which unfortunately is a low to the road, little car. I am a great candidate for the FBI and avidly study criminology reports in my spare time. By 2024, if the offer wasn’t from the FBI in writing, I was no longer willing to waste my time on promises from USA intelligence. The truth in writing here is, I had expressed my interest as an applicant to the FBI since approximately 2020, yet by 2024 it was difficult to tell who the good guys were. As I could see the FBI presence in Australia always had a minimal effect where it really mattered. Organised crime intelligence seeming to fall on deaf ears where profits were concerned. That does not impress me much.

The truth about VICPOL torts is deeper than what the surface reveals. VICPOL, with Criminologist Arthur Veno (DOB 1945 - 2019) have been feeding information to the CIA regarding the misuse of the association laws in Australia. Running their own agendas for gains for decades. Law enforcement across Australia all utilising and misleading the CIA for gains. Gains to which the CIA too benefits from. Sex and drugs on the top of this list – I am not revealing any truth unknown here. The state of Victoria, AUS is very much a Bandido (American bikers), paedophile click. American bikers heavily infiltrated by law enforcement at times and now is no surprise nor secret. The CIA known to at times poses as Hells Angels (HA) making the presence of HA bikers present where they feel they can take over territory which has a mutual benefit to law enforcement and bikers alike. This ambiguous alliance has very much driven the turmoil of the extraordinary emergency I have lived. That stated, this is Australia and our biker gang is the Comancheros, not the HA's or the Bandidos.

The following document created in 2008 outlines a small portion of the deep connection VICPOL has with organised crime via detectives, American born Arthur Veno (DOB 1945 - 2019) and the CIA.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON THE AUSTRALIAN CRIME COMMISSION Reference: Legislative arrangements to outlaw serious and organised crime groups

In 2019 through to 2024 Detective Matthew Olsten (ID 36324 VICPOL) despite myself NEVER being involved with organised crime was involved with illegal and baseless investigation activity surrounding myself. Due to Detective Matthew Olsten (ID 36324 VICPOL) actions he is irrefutably guilty of - Stalking, Perjury, Reputational Damage/Defamation, Violations to Privacy Act, Neglectful Investigations, Perverting the course of justice, Malicious accusations with no basis or facts, strip search torts, false incarceration torts.

Actions which nearly seen the loss of my life, all due to illegal dealings and operations engaged by police who are in direct association with organised crime activity.

Detective Matthew Olsten (ID 36324 VICPOL) actions escalated an extraordinary emergency which stemmed from SAPOL criminal negligence in a government cover up of sex crimes. This activity should lead to the newly implemented National Integrity Commission Recommending: No public funded retirement as charged with criminal offences. After years of taxpayers money being misappropriately invested in organised crime activity, these crimes should not be rewarded in police retirement. This action will also significantly reduce and deter law enforcements engagement with criminal offenders and offending.

Facts truthfully outlined in the non-ambiguous version of UGLY HEROS Autobiography proofed by me, not police or persons involved in a cover up. Myself the Author of the Autobiography UGLY HEROS about my life lived in the Shadows of the Elite STARForce team of Sth Australia Police. The facts are no one elses to divulge nor desecrate.

Truth be told, as a freemason, I do not trust all freemasonry nor freemasons. The cult a religious click like the Catholics, after vastly studying the craft most men – and many women were not acute to the truth nor did many care about it. I seen clear as day that all they cared for was power. I hate the sole desire for power with a passion. To serve the ego is to serve oneself and care not for another.

National Storage Australia are guilty of theft and insurance fraud which SAPOL encouraged. This business storing persons valuables should be not only taken to court regarding the vast level of illegalities I am aware of since being approached regarding a class action against the company but I feel after the devastating damages and emotional distress they have caused customers, that they should be closed as a business altogether. The violations of consumer business law and the insurance fraud they have committed on a corporate level is inexcusable.

I have been a public figure since 2012, upon incorporating brand Barbwire Noose, where the brand and my name was broadly exposed to the globe via investment prospects. Since this time, I have had numerous Public Relations (PR) opportunities and been involved with numerous influencer platforms. All of which have taken advantage of the opportunity to benefit out of a cover up of government, elite and law enforcement (not limited to) sex crimes. In 2024, I have agreed to get involved with New York Fashion House PR Firm - a Global Agency. Joining 23.k members across 30 countries, which I am really excited about. Attending and showcasing my BN (Barbwire Noose Couture designs at New York Fashion Week (NYFW) is a long-term dream of mine and the ultimate opportunity for any designer! Teaming up with NYFH, I am Officially a Professional Influencer – as recognised by the GIA. Selected as 'TOP 10 INFLUENCERS to watch in 2024, Watch this Space!! And allow me to brag a little here about myself – truths be told: "A fashion designer passionate about human rights especially those of voiceless peers and the most vulnerable persons in our society. Proudly, Barbwire Noose has globally campaigned Human Rights, our fashion and been selected from Australia for NYFW2021.

BN Couture designs sold in NYC was an Epic moment as the brand strives forward!

Myself and my brand known as outspoken and unconventional, with a Do NOT Conform Human Rights Activism. Barbwire Noose® is about Empowerment of 'A Better World' – Fear Is the Root of All Weakness (slogan).

Everything we do is about A Better World. Making positive changes in fashion with Activism. Brand Barbwire Noose, to me, is more than clothes, wearing the label is a statement. It is me and everything I embody.

An empowering movement, built from a struggle for change against government authority in the disabilities sector and beyond. I am here to create positive change at a governance level. Empowering lessons of civil disobedience – 'Do NOT Conform' moments.

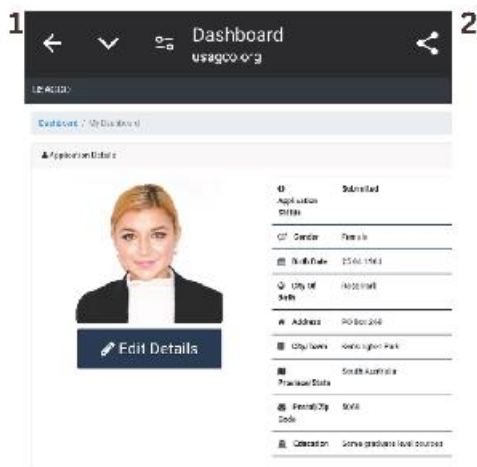

A broad range of skills and studies has brought me here! Applying knowledge from business, accounting, fashion studies - and more. A dedication to volunteering since a teenager - together we make 'A Better World'."

I met with Channel nine's marketing guru in 2023. Expressing that I could not save my dignity but I could save my integrity as The Story Behind the Brand BARBWIRE NOOSE rolled out globally in physical print after almost a year of the electronic publication (e-Pub) being downloadable via the National Library of Australia. I had been in contact with channel nine for months before sitting down in a café to discuss the requirements of Barbwire Noose's advertising further. Over a year in the making to launch the brands Television Commercial (TVC), the advert went from mediocre to mainstream quality in my eyes. In 2023 I produced an average advert which I honestly was not satisfied with at all. During the start of 2024, I nailed the brief I had given myself regarding the objective of advertising the book, the brand, and Human Rights. Truth be told, I am very happy that the advertising originally designed did not make it to air in 2023 – you can check this out via Barbwire Noose YouTube channel, you'll definitely see what I mean. The music diploma I obtained during the year of 2023 seen me able to produce a great voice over. Gently spoken, I not only sound like myself (happy and vibrant) but the TVC truly gives great imagery to the streetwear branding of Barbwire Noose and highlights that 'Human Rights Matter'. Shout out to Peter Mosley who has been a fantastic man to work with on this project over this period. At times I can be smart mouthed and difficult due to the extraordinary emergency I have been living during reckless endangerment and all types of struggles. No matter what, this man has been a champion and worked hard to cater for all my demands, delays, and needs. Great teamwork.

Last Truth VS Lies for this book. I am not a boxer – my dad is. I have never been trained in boxing and have never fought in the ring or trained to fight in the ring, only my brother has and my brother didn't like it enough to pursue the sport like my dad. My dad is a state level boxer, who only really fought amateur in the sport that I remember. He trained with heavy weight boxers for many years and when I was very young was prominent in the Port Augusta Sth AUS gym while he restaurant managed at Hungry Jack's and brought up his two young children.

I have only ever engaged in boxing as fitness training, which I was forced to do as a teen by my dad who attended these fitness sessions at the gym – not a boxing gym. Anyone who says otherwise is a liar and at this point has probably committed perjury with law enforcement and should be put in jail for that.

‘National Integrity Australia’

A mandamus is normally issued when an officer or an authority by compulsion of statute is required to perform a duty. Despite myself putting a demand of this writ in writing to the High Courts of Australia, so far SAPOL for nearly half a decade have been in contempt of court (year of this publication 2024, order made to act on the POLICE vs Kurt Slaven statement 2020), and this constitutional writ outcome has not been implemented by judges with knowledge of the cover ups or by the courts to which would be responsible for its implementation.

Nation /'neɪʃn/ noun : a large body of people united by common descent, history, culture, or language, inhabiting a particular country or territory.

Integrity /ɪn'teɡrɪti/ noun 1. the quality of being honest and having strong moral principles.

Australia / geographical name / Aus·tra·lia

1. continent of the eastern hemisphere southeast of Asia and south of the Equator area 2,948,366 square miles (7,665,751 square kilometers)
2. or Commonwealth of Australia dominion of the Commonwealth of Nations including the continent of Australia and the island of Tasmania; capital Canberra area 2,988,902 square miles (7,741,220 square kilometers), population 23,470,000

In October 2020 Helen Haines introduced the Australian Federal Integrity Commission Bill 2021 (to establish a federal ICAC largely modelled on the NSW ICAC), three years later the NACC was active. Three years after politicians, federal police, state police, government funded and independently funded counterparts scrambled and scrounged to cover up crimes and rorts at governance levels. The delay was not to debate better legislation, The NACC still toothless when it came into establishment, the delay was simply to aid and abet cover ups.

The NACC - The National Anti-Corruption Commission website claims it enhances integrity in the Commonwealth public sector by deterring, detecting, and preventing corrupt conduct involving Commonwealth public officials. It does this through education, monitoring, investigation, reporting and referral.

I submitted Autobiography UGLY HEROS The Price of Unlawful Enforcement to the NACC after Europe Books had proofed it – without proofing it myself. The manuscript still ambiguous at this stage was heavily modified by law enforcement who had made a mess out of the truth. The book no longer reflected the truth, the extraordinary emergency I had survived nor included vital information and felon's names that needed to be publicly disclosed for resolution. Someone was trying to cover up the truth, not just law enforcement in Australia. I believe it was the CIA and FBI agents involved in organised crime operations. Involved in the pretentiousness of law enforcement playing themselves as the Hells Angels and other biker gangs.

Best way to pissed me off is to lie. Lie to me, about me or in this case speaking for me – lying for me. How dare someone change my book to lie and cover up shameful and damaging police operations I thought. The only good thing about this activity was Europe Books were claiming the copyright – rightly so, those lies certainly were not the copyright ownership of my own Autobiography that's for sure. More importantly I certainly was not going to standby operations and actions that nearly seen my life lost in a foul game of malicious accusations with no facts or basis for paedophiles. Fuck that and Fuck you to all involved in the disgraceful actions that led to myself having to spend a year unnecessarily correcting the book and caused unnecessary emotional distress, physical abuse plus the rest.

No wonder Vladimir Putin is so against America holding ultimate power. His knowledge from the KGB (Committee for State Security) would have taught him long ago, that no good would come out of a New World Order which gave any country ultimate power over all society.

Such arrogance and ignorance displayed by American men (and any women involved too). I do not, and never will side with any power which does not respect the sovereignty of another country. We should all be free from tyranny. Tyranny I know too well. The CIA causing much destruction across the world with their out-of-control power and distorted manipulations of ongoing in the world.

For the NACC and Integrity bodies across Australia regarding law enforcement a lot can be learned from the errors of the Gordon Tearonui Hamm case in 2014 and the illegal acquisition of 69 Penola Road Mount Gambier in 2016 which led to an extraordinary emergency and decades of Reckless Endangerment. The outcome of these diabolical years is outlined in UGLY HEROS The Price of Unlawful Enforcement Autobiography. A publication that could be classed as a report - an Interim Report submission as I put forward recommendations regarding the incompetencies, illegalities and out of control activity of law enforcement due to the not fit for purpose and unconstitutional association laws. Irrefutably law enforcement is allied with criminal networks, the malpractice and corruption spans throughout every rank from Cadet to Commissioner and all sectors of the department. Here are some of those recommendations:

- RECOMMENDATIONS FOR ALL PERSONNEL, AND PERSONNEL ASSOCIATED WITH POLICE OMBUDSMAN/ICAC/IBAC

INVESTIGATIONS 2014 – 2024: All Officers (including volunteers and other public service roles engaging with law enforcement) with interacted History regarding Marcia Anita HOBBS period 2017 - 2024 addressed regarding institutional harassment – torts, emotional abuse (involves exposing a person's behaviour or language that can result in psychological trauma for the witness - proven), Victims' Rights Procedures violations, Duty of care - criminal negligence, Code of Conduct revision, perjury, breaches of confidentiality, reputational damage and to be charged under the police disciplinary act, and retrained regarding domestic violence, sexual violence and victims' rights obligations.

- Police forces to be demilitarised and trained in martial arts including meditation practises.
- Domestic Violence offenders with an Intervention Order to be clear that it is their obligation and not the victims to not violate the legal terms of intervention. Outlining that police officers will under all circumstances act if the intervention order is violated.
- Fabricated statements by police personnel subject to the same penalties and monetary ramifications as members of the public through standard court proceedings regarding criminal conduct. Government fraudulent charges also apply e.g. perjury.

- The recommendation of Police Ministerial accountability in ICAC/IBAC Legislation. Furthermore, criminal negligence penalty should apply to the police ministers for allowing the police force to commit criminal conduct against the public must be established in reform.
- The Office of Public Integrity's purpose is to hold and maintain Governments to act in the best interests of the Public Sector and within the law. Misappropriations of funds as well as unconstitutional litigation should be subject to Public Integrity penalties.
- Royal Commissions into state law enforcement bodies every seven years.
- Abolishment of the association laws introduced on Thursday 30th July 2015. These laws violate Constitutional law as well as the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.
- No state and federal exclusions or immunity for persons convicted of grievous criminal convictions (e.g., sex crimes, homicide, serious grievous bodily harm).
- All convictions proven in court beyond reasonable doubt in association to organised crimes proposed to serve a minimum sentence of three months incarceration for grievous criminal convictions.
- CIB Departments undergo ICAC/IBAC investigations every four years.

- Senior Sergeants to be compulsory allocated to All station shift schedules with no brand NOKIA/iPhone phones present within law enforcement or used as police service phones.
- Watchdog for ICAC/IBAC, independent record keeper for police ministry reviews linked to Ombudsman and NACC.
- ICAC/IBAC investigations into serious misconduct must involve observation of personnel subject to the complaint. All police conduct to monitored via partnered ICAC/IBAC with communications of the reported personnel monitoring maintained for a minimum of six months.
- Instant dismissal for convicted criminal conduct - Currently not applied. Commissioners (ICAC/IBAC) can be dismissed if criminal dismissal grounds are not enforced.
- No public funded retirement for police persons charged with serious criminal offences.
- Incidents of misconduct, obstruction of justice, minor perjury (unintentional) or aided misconduct (e.g., a cadet influenced into misconduct by a superior) to receive a rank limitation within the police force. The inability to climb the ranks to Sergeant or higher organisational policy.
- Informant (Human resource) recruitment reviews every four years.

- STARForce operations concluded as currently running. Complete re-establishment of the training and development program with legislative parameters in regards to civil rights and combat conduct. The use of military force on civilians is illegal and currently a taught practice within STARForce. The military like components need to be removed, with Army personnel with necessary permissions available to be utilized if military force is necessary.
- Three written warnings - Currently not applied. Police Commissioners to be dismissed under ICAC/IBAC if criminal dismissal grounds are not enforced. No public funded retirement for police commissioners charged with criminal offences.
- Victims' Rights procedure must be protected by a legislated penalty - monetary and incarceration enforcement.
- Victims' Rights legislated as compulsory litigation.
- Internal police credits and payments to persons regarding monetary rewards for intelligence to be overseen by OPI and approved by the police minister and State Premier.
- Blood testing an employment requirement. Police Officers Entry to public service STD status recorded, with regular - yearly Health checks.

- Compulsory records of STD status with instant compulsory disclosure if a member of the public is injured or exposed to this employee in a way to which infection could pass.
- Sexual Crimes investigations to be logged at each stage of the investigation. Time and dates to be logged regarding viewing of evidence. With any sexual material to be kept in a special unit of law enforcement departments/stations requiring ALL staff to log their viewing of all sexually explicit materials possessed by members from time of acquisition to finalisation of the viewing.
- Domestic violence incidents with intervention unaddressed resulting instant dismissal and Obstructing Justice of these incidents under ICAC/IBAC investigation receiving a penalty of monetary value or incarceration. Courts determine the validity of the report regarding the intervention order – all intervention order breaches acted on with no police personnel discretionary options.

Legislated standards recommended Nationally, State and Local.

- The police qualification upgraded to a Certificate 4 qualification including an assimilation program and specialised socialism training (crisis counselling component).

- Cadets to be assigned to team leadership consisting of two members, no 1-on-1 teaming throughout the Cadet stage of law enforcement admission.
- Organised crimes unit which are militarised to be governed with obligations to act via with civil applications of investigative powers in legislation, and legislated accountability regarding the application of psychological warfare including penalties of incarcerations regarding breaches to the Torture Act (which is Federal Law).
- Individual Integrity Insurance obligation for all police personnel covering individual employee for malpractice, corruption, harassment, and sexual charges to which individual personnel are solely responsible for. Ensuring taxpayers dollars are not misappropriated regarding severe police misconduct which does not meet charges under the Crimes Act.

Chapter Eleven 'Freemasonry'

"A man cannot lay down the right of resisting them that assault him by force, to take away his life." - Thomas Hobbes, Leviathan

This chapter of this book, which is an ongoing chapter in each of these books, is dedicated to an extract from Thomas Hobbes famous literature – Leviathan.

I hope you can learn as much as I have about life, people, governance and freemasonry from this book and this great man's teachings!

The literature of Thomas Hobbes is Epic! At times, the reading can be complex and require you to read it again, yet the theoretical foundations of his teachings make perfect sense. The literature is old English, and the substance matter is of a realistic – serious nature. There are no jokes in the extract you are about to read, just knowledge. Lots of knowledge.

Thomas Hobbes viewed government primarily as a device for ensuring collective security. Political authority is justified by a hypothetical social contract among the many that vests in a sovereign person or entity the responsibility for the safety and well-being of all.

Leviathan or the Matter, Forme, & Power of a Common-wealth Ecclesiasticall and Civill. By Thomas

Hobbes of Malmesbury London, printed for Andrew Crooke, at the Green Dragon in St. Pauls Church-yard 1651 - "Of Power, Worth, Dignity, Honour and Worthiness The power of a man, to take it universally, is his present means to obtain some future apparent good, and is either original or instrumental. Natural power is the eminence of the faculties of body, or mind; as extraordinary strength, form, prudence, arts, eloquence, liberality, nobility. Instrumental are those powers which, acquired by these, or by fortune, are means and instruments to acquire more; as riches, reputation, friends, and the secret working of God, which men call good luck. For the nature of power is, in this point, like to fame, increasing as it proceeds; or like the motion of heavy bodies, which, the further they go, make still the more haste. The greatest of human powers is that which is compounded of the powers of most men, united by consent, in one person, natural or civil, that has the use of all their powers depending on his will; such as is the power of a Commonwealth: or depending on the wills of each particular; such as is the power of a faction, or of diverse. factions leagued. Therefore to have servants is power; to have friends is power: for they are strengths united. Also, riches joined with liberality is power; because it procureth friends and servants: without liberality, not so; because in this case they defend not, but expose men to envy, as a prey. Reputation of power is power; because it draweth with it the adherence of those that need protection. So is reputation of love of a man's country, called popularity, for the same reason. Also, what quality soever maketh a man beloved or feared of many, or the reputation of such quality, is power; because it is a means to have the assistance and service of many. Good success is power; because it maketh reputation of wisdom or good fortune, which makes men either fear him or rely on him. Affability of men already in power is increase of power; because it gaineth love. Reputation of prudence in the conduct of peace or war is power; because to prudent men we commit the government of ourselves more willingly than to others. Nobility is power, not in all places, but only in those Commonwealths where it has privileges; for in such privileges consisteth their power. Eloquence is power; because it is seeming prudence. Form is power; because being a promise of good, it recommendeth men to the favour of women and strangers. The sciences are small powers; because not eminent, and therefore, not acknowledged in any man; nor are at all, but in a few, and in them, but of a few things. For science is of that nature, as none can understand it to be, but such as in a good measure have attained it. Arts of public use, as fortification, making of engines, and other instruments of war, because they confer to defence and victory, are power; and though the true mother of them be science, namely, the mathematics yet, because they are brought into the light by the hand of the artificer, they be esteemed (the midwife passing with the vulgar for the mother) as his issue. The value or worth of a man is, as of all other things, his price; that is to say, so much as would be given for the use of his power, and therefore is not absolute, but a thing dependent on the need and judgement of another. An able conductor of soldiers is of great price in time of war present or imminent, but in peace not so. A learned and uncorrupt judge is much worth in time of peace, but not so much in war. And as in other things, so in men, not the seller, but the buyer determines the price. For let a man, as most men do, rate themselves at the highest value they can, yet their true value is no more than it is esteemed by others. The manifestation of the value we set on one another is that which is commonly called honouring and dishonouring. To value a man at a high rate is to honour him; at a low rate is to dishonour him. But high and low, in this case, is to be understood by comparison to the rate that each man setteth on himself. The public worth of a man, which is the value set on him by the Commonwealth, is that which men commonly call dignity. And this value of him by the Commonwealth is understood by offices of command, judicature, public employment; or by names and titles introduced for distinction of such value. To pray to another for aid of any kind is to honour; because a sign we have an opinion he has power to help; and the more difficult the aid is, the more is the honour. To obey is to honour; because no man obeys them who they think have no power to help or hurt them. And consequently to disobey is to dishonour. To give great gifts to a man is to honour him; because it is buying of protection, and acknowledging of power. To give little gifts is to dishonour; because it is but alms, and signifies an opinion of the need of small helps. To be sedulous in promoting another's good, also to flatter, is to honour; as a sign we seek his protection or aid. To neglect is to dishonour. To give way or place to another, in any commodity, is to honour; being a confession of greater power. To arrogate is to dishonour. To show any sign of love or fear of another is honour; for both to love and to fear is to value. To contemn, or less to love or fear than he expects, is to dishonour; for it is undervaluing. To praise, magnify, or call happy is to honour; because nothing but goodness, power, and felicity is valued. To revile, mock, or pity is to dishonour. To speak to another with consideration, to appear before him with decency and humility, is to honour him; as signs of fear to offend. To speak to him rashly, to do anything before him obscenely, slovenly, impudently is to dishonour. To believe, to trust, to rely on another, is to honour him; sign of opinion of his virtue and power. To distrust, or not believe, is to dishonour. To hearken to a man's counsel, or discourse of what kind soever, is to honour; as a sign we think him wise, or eloquent, or witty. To sleep, or go forth, or talk the while, is to dishonour. To do those things to another which he takes for signs of honour, or which the law or custom makes so, is to honour; because in approving the honour done by others, he acknowledgeth the power which others acknowledge. To refuse to do them is to dishonour. To agree with in opinion is to honour; as being a sign of approving his judgement and wisdom. To dissent is dishonour, and an upbraiding of error, and, if the dissent be in many things, of folly. To imitate is to honour; for it is vehemently to approve. To imitate one's enemy is to dishonour. To honour those another honours is to honour him; as a sign of approbation of his judgement. To honour his enemies is to dishonour him. To employ in counsel, or in actions of difficulty, is to honour; as a sign of opinion of his wisdom or other power. To deny employment in the same cases to those that seek it is to dishonour. All these ways of honouring are natural, and as well within, as without Commonwealths. But in Commonwealths where he or they that have the supreme authority can make whatsoever they please to stand for signs of honour, there be other honours. A sovereign doth honour a subject with whatsoever title, or office, or employment, or action that he himself will have taken for a sign of his will to honour him. The king of Persia honoured Mordecai when he appointed he should be conducted through the streets in the king's garment, upon one of the king's horses, with a crown on his head, and a prince before him, proclaiming, "Thus shall it be done to him that the king will honour." And yet another king of Persia, or the same another time, to one that demanded for some great service to wear one of the king's robes, gave him leave so to do; but with this addition, that he should wear it as the king's fool; and then it was dishonour. So that of civil honour, the fountain is in the person of the Commonwealth, and dependeth on the will of the sovereign, and is therefore temporary and called civil honour; such as are magistracy, offices, titles, and in some places coats and scutcheons painted: and men honour such as have them, as having so many signs of favour in the Commonwealth, which favour is power. Honourable is whatsoever possession, action, or quality is an argument and sign of power. And therefore to be honoured, loved, or feared of many is honourable, as arguments of power. To be honoured of few or none, dishonourable. Dominion and victory is honourable because acquired by power; and servitude, for need or fear, is dishonourable. Good fortune, if lasting, honourable; as a sign of the favour of God. Ill and losses, dishonourable. Riches are honourable, for they are power. Poverty, dishonourable. Magnanimity, liberality, hope, courage, confidence, are honourable; for they proceed from the conscience of power. Pusillanimity, parsimony, fear, diffidence, are dishonourable. Timely resolution, or determination of what a man is to do, is honourable, as being the contempt of small difficulties and dangers. And irresolution, dishonourable, as a sign of too much valuing of little impediments and little advantages: for when a man has weighed things as long as the time permits, and resolves not, the difference of weight is but little; and therefore if he resolve not, he overvalues little things, which is pusillanimity. All actions and speeches that proceed, or seem to proceed, from much experience, science, discretion, or wit are honourable; for all these are powers. Actions or words that proceed from error, ignorance, or folly, dishonourable. Gravity, as far forth as it seems to proceed from a mind employed on something else, is honourable; because employment is a sign of power. But if it seem to proceed from a purpose to appear grave, it is dishonourable. For the gravity of the former is like the steadiness of a ship laden with merchandise; but of the like the steadiness of a ship ballasted with sand and other trash. To be conspicuous, that is to say, to be known, for wealth, office, great actions, or any eminent good is honourable; as a sign of the power for which he is conspicuous. On the contrary, obscurity is dishonourable. To be descended from conspicuous parents is honourable; because they the more easily attain the aids and friends of their ancestors. On the contrary, to be descended from obscure parentage is dishonourable. Actions proceeding from equity, joined with loss, are honourable; as signs of magnanimity: for magnanimity is a sign of power. On the contrary, craft, shifting, neglect of equity, is dishonourable."

"The true God may be personated. As He was: first, Moses, who governed the Israelites, that were that were not his, but God's people; not in his own name, with hoc dicit Moses, but in God's name, with hoc dicit Dominus. Secondly, by the Son of Man, His own Son, our blessed Saviour Jesus Christ, that came to reduce the Jews and induce all nations into the kingdom of his Father; not as of himself, but as sent from his Father. And thirdly, by the Holy Ghost, or Comforter, speaking and working in the Apostles; which Holy Ghost was a Comforter that came not of himself, but was sent and proceeded from them both." - Leviathan or the Matter, Forme, & Power of a Common-wealth Ecclesiasticall and Civill. By Thomas Hobbes of Malmesbury London, printed for Andrew Crooke, at the Green Dragon in St. Pauls Church-yard 1651

Chapter Twelve

‘Opinions and Random Shit’

Opinions are like assholes, everyone's got one - these are mine. Plus, Anything but Ordinary random shit.

My opinion on dick pics. For me, well, I'm not a fan of good angles leading to disappointment and I don't actually think bigger is better. So, using a male type of attitude – the dick pic is like a jacked-up filter on a photo. No one really wants to see that shit if you can't produce at least half of what you see.

I'll add, I used to wear a top to school which said, “We lied, size does matter!” which my home class teacher ban me from wearing, yet she let this flat chested girl wear it – I was SO pissed. That stated, I hadn't even had sex at this time I'm pretty sure and that long sleeved top is wrong regarding men – “it is not about the size – it is how you use it!” As for chicks and the clear reason Ms Pfitzner (the library lady – if that's off in spelling or whatever) ban me from wearing that top – you'd have to ask blokes if they think boob size matters, which in my opinion it clearly does to most.

In my opinion if you can be anything in the world you should be it with the good of humanity at heart. Life is not about striving for yourself; it is about striving for each other. The selfishness of man has ruined many good things only to see them die with their greed or have their greed die with them. We are emotive beings, not materialistic ones. Keep this in mind when you interact with everyone. The most important people in life are those you do not know because those are the people that benefit not from you and you not from them.

“That which is mine is always mine, even if you steal from my cup – that shit is still mine.” – Marcia BNoose (Marcia Anita Hobbs)

I view everyday as something new, even if it is the same mundane thing, I believe that each day is a new time print of our lives and we should get up and live it with enthusiasm.

I believe the most revolutionary thing we can be is kind. Though I am not always kind calling out crimes and misdeeds. I am a gentle soul with a gentle nature, which is all you will see of me if I am not fighting adversities.

Breakfast is the most important meal of the day.

'Breakfast is often referred to as the most important meal of the day and in recent years has been implicated in weight control, cardio-metabolic risk factors and cognitive performance although, at present, the literature remains inconclusive as to the precise health benefits of breakfast. There are extensive reports of breakfast's contributions to daily food and nutrient intakes, as well as many studies that have compared daily food and nutrient intakes by breakfast consumers and skippers. However, significant variation exists in the definitions of breakfast and breakfast skippers, and in methods used to relate breakfast nutrient intakes to overall diet quality. The present review describes a novel and harmonised approach to the study of the nutritional impact of breakfast through The International Breakfast research Initiative involving national dietary survey data from Canada, Denmark, France, Spain, the UK and the USA. It is anticipated that the analysis of such data along harmonised lines, will allow the project to achieve its primary goal of exploring approaches to defining optimal breakfast food and nutrient intakes. Such data will be of value to public health nutrition policy-makers and food manufacturers and will also allow consistent messaging to help consumers to optimize food choices at breakfast.' People will believe what they want to believe – no matter what. Never waste time convincing a person of the truth if they are set on believing a lie. You're better off convincing their friends of the truth and making them look stupid than you are repeating yourself to an ignorant man or woman.

The greatest disasters in life stem from groups of people doing nothing or groups of people doing something. Following a group of people is stupid. Walk as an individual in any cause with your fellow man, and remember you are never bound by a group of people – walk away if it is not okay. This is the only way to stop the momentum of pride in a crowd of fools – don't be one of those fools.

Mascara is the most important piece of make up a woman can wear I believe. Followed by a good lip gloss. With the most valuable compliment you can give your face being a good hair day!

Brush your teeth.

REVOLUTIONARY FASHION

Every Barbwire Noose item worn by me is gifted to opportunity stores or upcycled (if in good quality). A Discount to recycle old brand garments to encourage the public to engage consciously in sustainable fashion pathways is an initiative created by Barbwire Noose. It involves encouraging purchasers to ‘Get Involved’ with this action by rewarding purchasers for returning quality Barbwire Noose purchases after wearing with a discount.

QUANTUM PHYSICS

'Quantum mechanics, science dealing with the behaviour of matter and light on the atomic and subatomic scale. It attempts to describe and account for the properties of molecules and atoms and their constituents—electrons, protons, neutrons, and other more esoteric particles such as quarks and gluons. These properties include the interactions of the particles with one another and with electromagnetic radiation (i.e., light, X-rays, and gamma rays).' - Britannica

Quantum physics is the study of matter and energy at the most fundamental level. It aims to uncover the properties and behaviours of the very building blocks of nature.

I believe we are an infinitely greater metaphysical immortality. I believe quantum physics can prove this theoretical phenomenon of life and time as materialised energy.

POWER vs PEOPLE

"People Power" is a political term denoting the populist driving force of any social movement which invokes the authority of grassroots opinion and willpower, usually in opposition to that of conventionally organised corporate or political forces.
